

Moral Growth: Virtue and Disruptive Experiences Workshop

A two day pre-read workshop on the book manuscript Moral Growth: Virtue and Disruptive Experiences by Evgenia Mylonaki (University of Patras, Greece). Professor Mylonaki argues that moral growth is a disruptive experience that alters one's entire vision of the world. The manuscript brings into sharp focus an understanding of moral growth and virtue as depending crucially on our capacity to think ourselves into the being of another individual. The workshop should be of interest to anyone interested in cutting-edge international contemporary ethics, as well as those interested in the value and significance of individuality or the way disruptive experiences are expressed and thematized in both fiction and philosophy.

Faculty Coordinators

Kim Frost (Philosophy)

Alexandra Newton (Philosophy)