**Closed Workshop****

Emily Hue is an Assistant Professor of Ethnic Studies at the University of California, Riverside, where she is currently working on a book manuscript, tentatively titled, "Economies of Vulnerability: Humanitarian Imperialism and Performance in the Burmese Diaspora." In this workshop, she engages this interdisciplinary project which uses visual and performance analysis, ethnographic interviews and archival research to explore how diasporic artists and activists from Burma and other postcolonial nations use bodily abstraction and in some cases, self-injury, to express their vulnerability to challenges of military rule as well as resettlement.
